STEUBENVILLE, O., June 19.—Very few miners along the Wheeling and Lake Erie in this county accept the Columbus compromise, and the situation along the line is critical. Serious trouble may develop before the mining troubles are settled. The Long Run miners accepted the compromise and went to work yesterday. The company tried to start the Laurelton and Dillonvale mines, but the miners refused to allow them, and threatened violence.

Maryland Miners at Work.

LONACONING, Md., June 19.—Two hundred miners returned to work in the Elk Garden region yesterday at forty cents per ton, and 844 are at work in the Consolidation Coal company's mines at Frostburg. Michael Dooley, the miner who went to work every day last week with his son, attempted to do so yesterday without protection. He was set upon by a number of women, who took away his dinner pail, smashed it and drove him home.

To Organize Independently.

PITTSBURG, Kan., June 19.—An interstate delegate miners convention is called to meet in this city tomorrow comprising delegates from Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and the Indian Territory. The object of the convention is to discuss the advisability of establishing a uniform price for mining coal and, it is said, to organize all the coal producing states west of the Mississippi river separately from the national organization.

Illinois Miners' Extravagant Demands.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., June 19.—Committees of miners throughout the Springfield sub district presented a scale of prices to each operator yesterday and requested acquiescence in their demand. The operators refused and are to hold a convention here today. They say the miners demands are extravagant being ten cents more than was paid when the strike was inaugurated.

Iron Miners Defeated.

IRONWOOD, Mich., June 19.—It looks as though the strike of the Gogebic miners was a huge failure. The East Norrie is the only one of a dozen mines threatened [illegible] work at the prices agreed upon at Columbus, providing there is a general resumption of work in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

West Virginia's Strike Ended.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., June 19.—Though the Columbus scale had no reference to West Virginia, yet the miners of this region are resuming work and the strike is practically ended.

Awaiting the Columbus Convention.

CANAL DOVER, O., June 19.—A number of the small mine owners in this county began operations yesterday, but the large ones are waiting for the result of the Columbus convention.

FITZSIMMONS-CHOYNSKI.

Their Fight Stopped by Police in the Fifth Round.

FITZ HAD A DECIDED ADVANTAGE.

But for Police Interference the Australian Would Have Finished His Adversary in Another Round—It Was a Lively Battle While It Lasted.

BOSTON, June 19.—At the Boston theater last night Bob Fitzsimmons, champion middleweight of the world and challenger of Jim Corbett, turned an almost certain defeat into victory. Had not the police interfered it was ten to one that he would have finished Joe Choyinski in another punch. As it was, the match was declared a draw, but no one present will ever claim that Choyinski is a man worthy to combat with the lanky Australian. No less than 8,000 cheering, howling men enjoyed the battle, the like of which ever Boston has never seen before.

Choynski was the first to appear, and in his wake came a retinue of handlers and seconds, including Ned McAvoy and Parson Davies. Fitzsimmons followed shortly after, attended by his protege Young Hardler. Then Dan Murphy sounded the gong, and the fight commenced.

First Round—Fitzsimmons was the first to lead, missing by a left hand swing by Choynski's quick ducking. The Australian again led, landing his left lightly on Choynski's chin and receiving an easy tap on the stomach in return. Honors even.

Second Round—Fitz had evidently gauged his man for no sooner had he reached the center than he tapped him twice in the face with his long left. This seemed to waken the Californian, for with a smile he let go right and left, the latter landing with good effect on Fitz's body. Twice did Fitz miss left hand swings, but towards the finish he got Choynski in a corner and in an upper cut grazed Joe's jaw. A clinch followed, and the gong ended the round.

Third Round—Fitz was the first to reach the center of the ring, and as Choynski neared him he feinted and then let go a vicious left hander. Joe side-slipped him, and quick as a flash shot out his left. It landed full on the point of the foreigner's jaw and Fitzsimmons measured his [illegible]

COTTOLENE IS MADE TO EAT

Made from clarified oil, expressed from Cotton Seed—as pure and golden as the Southern Sunshine which produces it.

For convenience in handling, there is added to this oil enough beef suet to make it a semi-solid.

The combination of these two pure natural products makes Cottolene, a shortening and cooking fat, with which in healthfulness, cleanliness, flavor and economy, nothing in the world can compare.

IMITATIONS are MADE TO SELL

To sell on the merits of the genuine. To sell by substitution; or by deception. To sell to the injury of the genuine, to the dissatisfaction of the consumer, to the detriment of the dealer, to the loss of all concerned—except the scheming counterfeiter himself.

If you wish the best food and the best health, you should insist that your cooking be done with genuine Cottolene. Refuse all counterfeits.

REMINISCENCE.

Though I am native to this frozen zone
That half the twelvemonth torpid lies or dead,
Though the cold azure arching overhead
And the Atlantic's intermittent moan
Are mine by heritage, I must have known
Life otherwhere in epochs long since fled,
For in my veins some orient blood is red,
And through my thought are lotus blossoms blown.
I do remember—it was just at dusk,
Near a walled garden at the river's turn
(A thousand summers seem but yesterday!)
A Nubian girl, more sweet than Khoorja musk,
Came to the water tank to fill her urn,
And, with the urn, she bore my heart away!

A LIVING TOMB.

Four years ago I spent the summer in France. July found me in the department of Calvados, Normandy, at a village near Caen, a mine of antiquities. The cure, Father Aloysius, showed me everything which he thought would interest a stranger. As some slight return for his kindness I asked him to lunch with me. We went to the hotel.

Very old, with snowy hair and face as ruddy as a pippin of his province, my companion carried sunshine wherever he went. He had a cheery greeting for all, and it was easy to see that all venerated him.

"Yes, monsieur, my people know me," he said in answer to some remark. "Forty-seven years I have labored among them. It is almost a lifetime. The church has called me often. My friends say I might have been a bishop, but I could not leave."

A group of men excitedly gesticulating stood round the hotel door. They came to meet us hurriedly.

"Have you heard, father—have you heard?" they cried.

"No, my friends," he answered. "What is the news?"

Several spoke at once, but this is the gist of what they said:

"You know the old castle is sold? To a rich bourgeois—yes? The place is tumble down. He will have it repaired. Pierre Valois and Jean Prudhomme went with their tools this morning to take down some masonry. M. Grousset, the purchaser—he was there too. They found a skeleton in the wall."

"Sacred name!" cried the priest, white as a corpse. "At Vallon? No. Not a mile away? Impossible!"

"It is true."

Father Aloysius turned to me. He shook like a man with the ague.

"You will pardon me, monsieur? I must go at once. This is a great discovery. I will verify it and return."

He hastened away. I lunched alone.

It was 4 o'clock when he came back, still pale and very subdued.

"I have been rude," he said. "I crave again a thousand pardons. I could not tear myself away. Forty-seven years I have sought what chance has brought to light today. You shall hear.

"Forty-seven years ago I came to this village. I had been asked to take charge of it in the absence of the cure. It was my second night here—so dark one could not see one's hand. I was tired. I had been visiting the sick. I lay down in my soutane and slept. A loud knocking awoke me.

"'Who is there?' I cried.

"'Friends of the church,' a voice answered.

"I opened the door. Two men entered, tall and well dressed. I could not see their faces. They wore masks.

"'Are you the cure?' said the man who had answered me—a foreigner by his accent.

"I explained.

"'No matter,' he said; 'one priest is as good as another. A man is dying. He wishes to receive absolution. Will you go?'

"I hesitated. 'Will you explain why you wear those masks?' I said.

"He laughed. 'It is the simplest thing in the world. We do not wish to be recognized. Now, will you go? Your poor will benefit.'

"'I am ready,' I replied.

"A carriage stood outside the door. My poor lamp revealed it. I entered it with the spokesman. The other mounted the box. Many times the carriage turned completely round.

"'Does your companion not know the way?' I asked.

"'It is very dark,' was the reply.

"I have been reminded of the circumstances, apparently trivial, today. At the time I suspected nothing. I know now that the carriage was turned to confuse me. My companion was taciturn. He answered me 'No,' 'Yes.'

"Many miles we traveled, 20 or more. Two hours we had journeyed when the carriage stopped in a paved yard.

"'We alight here,' said my morose companion.

"I followed him. The coachman descended. I could not see him. I could not distinguish the carriage.

"'Is it necessary to blindfold the priest?' he asked.

"'No,' was the reply.

"I was disquieted, but not afraid. A poor monk need not fear robbers.

"'Give me your hand,' said my fellow traveler.

"I obeyed. He led me along a passage between high walls.

"The sounds told me. We crossed another paved yard and climbed a stone staircase. The apartment we entered was flagged. My guide halted.

"'The priest is here,' he said in a loud voice. I saw nothing. His voice echoed as if in an empty room of vast size.

"'Where is the dying man?' I asked.

"'Stand close to the wall.' He placed me in position. Cold air struck my face—a draft. There was a cavity. 'The priest is here,' my guide repeated.

"Then I heard another voice, very faint, as of a man near death. 'Is he alone?' it said.

"'No,' I answered. 'One of the men who brought me here stands beside me.'

"The poor wretch sighed.

"'I will retire,' said my companion. His footsteps sounded like those of one walking in a vault. The dying man heard.

"'You are alone now?' he said.

"'Yes,' I answered. 'Speak on.'

"He did so. Ah, monsieur, I thought I was dreaming.

"'I am near death. I need the last rites of the church,' he said.

"'Confess your sins,' I answered.

"'My sins are trivial,' he returned. 'I would speak of a great crime. I occupy a cell twice the width of my body. I know not where. I am condemned to die of starvation. I know not why. I have never injured a fellow creature.'

"My blood boiled. 'Speak on,' I repeated.

"'My name is Jules Davoust,' he resumed. 'I am of Caen and well known. I was a happy man until I met Sophie Polinski. Aye, afterward I was happy. She is Polish, of noble family. So she told me. Ah, father, she is beautiful. I loved her. I love her still. She returned my passion, I am only a tradesman, but we were married. Two months of bliss were mine. One day she came to me trembling. "Fly," she said. "Fly at once." She would not explain. I had my business—my little shop. I had done no wrong. I refused. That night she disappeared. Next day I received a note written by her hand. She bade me meet her in the wood at a secluded place known to us both. I went. She was not there. It was dark. I called her by name. Two men came up, seized and gagged me, forced me into a carriage and brought me here. I am condemned without trial. My jailers tell me that I must die or a noble name will be dishonored. There is nothing more. I was permitted to choose the manner of death. Aid me if you can, but give me absolution now.'

"I absolved him. I bade him have courage. I assured him that he would be free in a few hours. My guide returned.

"'I have heard your words,' he said. 'You cannot aid him. If I thought you could, you would share his fate.'

"He took my hand and led me to the carriage, entering with me. The coachman whipped his horses. They galloped. I pleaded for the poor man. My companion was dumb. I threatened him with the law. He answered not a word. I pictured the vengeance of an offended God. He was stone. I vowed to devote my life to the discovery and punishment of his crime. Still not a word. But I have kept and will keep my vow. A faint gray light was showing in the east when we reached the cure's door. I alighted. A purse was thrust into my hand. The carriage disappeared.

"Two hours later the gendarmes were scouring the country. They discovered nothing. Seven days I passed visiting chateaux and houses, to no purpose. Then I went to Caen. I found the home of Jules Davoust. Both he and his wife were missing. The neighbors described him—a very handsome man, incapable of committing a crime. His wife, they told me, was a beautiful woman, with the air of a princess. She spoke French with a foreign accent, dressed in silk and satin and wore valuable jewels.

"The gendarmes wearied of the fruitless search, but I did not. I made my home here. I succeeded the cure. I mapped out the country and visited every chateau, save one, within a wide radius, every farm house. Forty-seven years I have sought a clew. Come to the window."

I rose. Father Aloysius pointed to the old castle of Vallon, crowning a hill scarcely a mile distant.

"That is the chateau which I did not visit," he said. "It is so near, and I traveled many miles that night. There the tomb of Jules Davoust was discovered this morning. I have stood within it. It is a hole in the wall six feet high by four wide. The stones behind which the poor wretch spoke to me bulged with the weight above, and the workmen pulled them down. The skeleton fell out. In my presence they replaced them. One stone, just the height of my head, was without mortar. It could have been removed easily. The two paved yards are there, the passage between the walls, the stone staircase, the big flagged room. I have no doubt at all. If the criminals are living, they shall be brought to justice."

Twelve months afterward I met Father Aloysius in Paris. He had just returned from Poland. An examination of the papers of the late owner of the chateau had resulted in the discovery that his grandfather had rented the place to a Polish gentleman who gave the name of Lulenski. The latter took it for a year, but at the end of six months apprised the proprietor that he no longer needed it.

"That is all we know," said the cure. "In Poland I learned nothing. Nor have the police been more successful."

"And the mystery is as far from being solved as ever?"

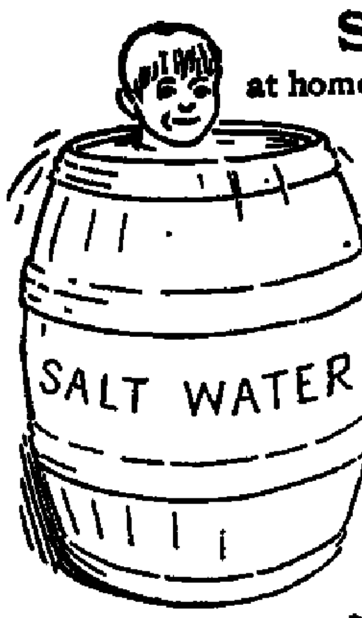

"Yes. I fear the truth will not be known until the day of judgment. I have imagined many things. The 48 years which have passed have been fruitful in curious reflections. I would dismiss the matter from my mind now if I could. But I fear that is impossible."
—Ashmore Russan in Million.

A Dainty Dish.

Cooked bear has already figured on the menu cards of modern epicures, but it has been reserved for the mayor of Ain Tedeles, in Algeria, to treat the editors of a local paper to the loin of a panther killed within the limits of his township. The editors partook of the novel dainty with evident relish and pronounced it the next day in the columns of their papers to be deliciously tender and palatable.—Echo d'Oran.

A Victim of Avarice.

In 1812 a teacher of languages in Berlin died literally of hunger. He had been in the habit of giving lessons in the daytime and begging at night. After his death a sum of money equal to about 100,000 francs was found concealed in his room. He had for his heir a brother, whom he had refused to see for the space of 27 years because he had written to him a letter without paying the postage.—Tesoretto.

Salt Water Bathing—

at home or shore, for health and cleanliness, can be done perfectly with Pearline. The Pearline in such a bath gives you luxurious cleanliness. More, too. It's a decided help toward making the salt water do you good. You don't get all out of it that you can, unless you assist it with Pearline. Soap is out of the question in salt water bathing. You can't use soap with salt water, any way.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 401 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

My Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

What a Minister Says.

REV. W. WILLIAMS.

Trinity Station, Morgan Co., Ala.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—In the fall of last year I suffered from rheumatism in my left shoulder and elbow. I tried a great many remedies, recommended to me by friends, but they all failed to afford relief. From the time I began Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, until I felt that I was cured, was a period covering four or five months. While the attack lasted, I suffered a great deal, and could not dress or undress myself. Although I am 79 years old, I now regard my health as splendid. I had spent a great deal of money previously, in various kinds of medicine, but the "Discovery," from the day I commenced until I was well, cost only FOUR DOLLARS.

Accept my gratitude, and I beg to subscribe myself. Your friend,
REV. WILSON WILLIAMS.

CHOLERA INFANTUM HERE.

Babies Beginning to Die of this Dread Disease.

Summer Disorder That Kills the Infants Comes Early.

The Prompt Use of Lactated Food Is Recommended to Mothers.

The summer begins early this year, and cholera infantum, the dread disease that causes half the funerals in June and July, has appeared in some places almost like an epidemic.

Mothers should feed their babies upon lactated food. Physicians all over the country say it is the most valuable means at their command for tiding children over the dangerous days of summer, as a preventive of cholera infantum, and as a steady diet all the year around for making sickly children grow sturdy, clear-eyed, happy and full of animation.

"Lactated food babies" has come to mean those solid, rosy-cheeked, bright little fellows, who have never known a day of serious illness.

Says B. Frank Penny, of the New Bedford, Mass., Standard:

"Shortly after our baby Willie was born he had a severe attack of sickness with symptoms of cholera infantum. We tried various foods and remedies, but he grew thinner every day until we began to despair of saving his life Finally a friend recommended lactated food, and we began using it. The effect was extremely gratifying. He began to grow better at once, and in a short time he was fat and strong and the very picture of health. We have fed him on lactated food ever since, and he has not been sick a single day.

THE TREATY WITH RUSSIA.

Self Respect Demands That the United States Should Abrogate It.

Senator Turpie introduced a joint resolution declaring that it is no longer to the interest of the United States to continue the treaty ratified with Russia last April and that notice shall be given to the emperor that the treaty shall expire at the end of six months, the term prescribed in its text to precede nullification by either signer

The immediate cause of the introduction of the resolution is refusal by Russia to permit American citizens of Hebrew faith to travel or sojourn in that country We cannot tolerate this assumption by an absolute despotism of the right to discriminate among American citizens to the advantage of some and the injury of others.

There are clauses in the treaty which should have rendered it obnoxious to the senate and executive of the United States, who ought not to have approved it. It was approved under the illusion that in the Bering sea controversy, then unsettled, ratification of the treaty would insure for us at Washington Russian friendship desirable in the adjudication of the fisheries question.

No matter what the fallacy under which its ratification was effected it was offensive to the people of the United States, who did not submit to it the more willingly because of an implied but improper and irrelevant argument or consideration for its ratification. We gained nothing at Paris by the treaty. We were not entitled to gain anything by it.

So long as Russia continues an absolute despotism, so long as human rights in that country are utterly at the mercy of official caprice in the highest ranks and subject to the corruption or malice of officialdom in the lower planes, it ill becomes a free people to enter into any compact beneficial to Russia and discreditable to the institutions of democracy.

Russia has treated us with open contempt—in violating the articles of the treaty guaranteeing to all American citizens equal rights within her domain. As she has herself broken an essential part of the treaty, it is demanded by self respect that the United States shall abrogate the instrument altogether and without delay.—Chicago Herald.

Why Few Murder Trials In Boston.

Considerable curiosity has been aroused by the statement that the Corchidi case is the first murder trial in Suffolk county in 10 years. It seems that there have been many murders in the county within the period mentioned, but rather than go to the expense of a trial the government has seen fit to accept the plea of guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced the accused on that, as it is believed that the ends of justice are as fully met in this way as in trying the man on a charge of murder in the first degree and running the risk of failing to convict As a rule, juries do not like to bring in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree even if it is in keeping with the evidence.—Boston Transcript

Reasonable Doubt of Its Truth.

A few days ago a dispatch was printed in the papers stating that William L. Guptill of Gouldsboro, Me., had been thrown from his carriage and killed, the details of the accident being also given Thursday The Journal received this note written below the printed dispatch: "Mr Editor—The above was clipped from a late paper. Yours truly, William L Guptill" It is evident that County Commissioner Guptill is very much alive, and it is also evident that his bright wit sees the superfluity of more comment than the signature at the end of his laconic note.—Boston Journal

TUESDAY, JUNE 19, 1894.

To-day's gold shipments amount to $1,500,000. The Treasury's gold reserve has been reduced to about $65,000,000.

Politics and business, even if the business is only railroad gate tending, do not mix well. The accident at Paterson, yesterday, in which a Susquehanna train wrecked an electric car, and injured seven persons, was due to the neglect of the flagman, who was so busy talking politics that he forgot to lower the gates.

The story telegraphed from Washington, yesterday, of an Anarchist plot to blow up the White House, Capitol, Treasury and other public buildings, proves to have been nothing but a very poor practical joke played by a Washington physician on an over credulous clergyman of his acquaintance who, big with the portentious secret, talked of it till it came to the ears of newspaper men, who elaborated it into a most blood curdling tale.

This morning's papers contain many accounts of gruesome suicides and, by the strange chance that seems to govern in such matters, three of them were prompted by grief for loved ones "who had gone before." The saddest case of all was that of James F. ishay, a New York man, who, urged with grief on the death of his wife, which occurred a year ago, imagined that he heard her calling, and murdered his little son and killed himself that they might join her in a better world.

A SUIT AGAINST THE K. OF H.

All the State Hospital Officials Served With Subpoenas.

The Trustees, the Medical Staff and other officials of the State Hospital were served, last evening, with subpoenas in a suit brought by Henrietta Tremper, of New York, against the Supreme Lodge of the Knights of Honor to recover $2,000, the amount of a policy held by plaintiff's husband, Wm. Tremper, who died in the State Hospital in this city.

Tremper was brought to the hospital, on Dec. 4th, 1892, suffering from acute mania and died on the 13th of the same month.

When the application was made to the Supreme Lodge, K. of H., for payment of the policy, it was refused on the ground that he had failed to pay his dues for six months prior to the time he became irresponsible.

The plaintiff claims that he was irresponsible when he allowed his dues to lapse, and therefore the order is liable for the claim.

A pysician, representing the plaintiff, came to the State Hospital, on Sunday, and asked to see the records in Tremper's case, but was told that such business could not be transacted on Sunday. The plaintiff's attorney, yesterday, went before Judge Cullen, at Goshen, and obtained the subpoenas. The case is set down for to-morrow.

General Term Decision of Local Interest

Among the decisions handed down by the General Term of this Department, yesterday, was the one affirming the judgment of the Special Term of the Supreme Court, in the case of the Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank vs. Cumings. The opinion was written by Justice Cullen, in which all the others concurred. Daniel Finn for plaintiff, Geo. W. Decker for defendant.

The O. and W. Pay Car in Town.

The O. and W. pay car arrived in town, on train 5, last evening, and this morning, distributed about forty thousand dollars among the employes of the road.

Fell From a Cherry Tree.

David Godfrey, a young lad living at the North End, fell from a cherry tree, yesterday, sustaining injuries about the head. He was taken to Thrall Hospital for treatment.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Held for Grand Larceny—Dikemman's Entertainment—The Prize Speaking Contest—Other Notes.

From our regular correspondent.

—Dan Mally was arrested by Officer Landy and brought before Justice Coleman, yesterday, who held him to await the action of the grand jury, on a charge of grand larceny. Mally was in a saloon, drinking, and got into a dispute with a man named Hugh Flynn, over having a certain amount of money. Flynn produced the roll and Mally knocked it out of his hand and his boy grabbed it and ran, with Mally after him. Officer Landy secured the amount lost, about $80.

—Nominations of Officers of Orange Lodge, I. O. O. F., to-night. A full attendance of members is requested.

MONTGOMERY.

An Unpleasant Mishap—Base Ball—Fine Rose Gardens—A Joke That Was Not a Joke.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY

—Miss Minnie Scott, of Newburgh, is the guest of Miss Georgie Gillespie, at her home on Union street.

—While Wm. Wildermoth was drawing a load of hay to Goshen, one day recently, in turning Winfield's corner, the load slipped off. The hay was reloaded without any damage and started to its destination, but the same mishap befell it again, about two miles from Goshen. Only a part of the hay was loaded on, leaving the rest by the road side. Some miscreant set the hay on fire.

—Those who know all the facts in regard to the alleged joke played upon the writer, as published in the Montgomery Reporter, and most everybody does, are not laughing at the ARGUS correspondent by any means.

—The Montgomery Base Ball Club played their first game of ball on the Driving Park, on Friday afternoon, with the Goshen Club. The game was to decide the supremacy between the contestants, each having won a a game last year, so, the contest was very warm. The visitors started in with Jansen to pitch, but after one inning he was taken out, five runs and two hits being made off him. Then the great and only Charlie Tierney occupied the box and did good work, but the home team batted out a victory of eleven hits in seven innings. He struck out sixteen men. Mickey Toars pitched for Montgomery and held his opponents down to eight hits, three by Tierney, and ten strike outs. The score was twelve to three, with fourteen hits for the home team and eight for Goshen. A catch by Dawson and the batting of Senior and Tierney were the features of the game. Attendance about 200; weather delightful.

—Montgomery has some residents who possess some very fine roses. The houses of J. M. Wilkin and of Mrs. G. Gillespie are particularly noted for their grand display of this handsome flower.

Too Competent.

A duchess requiring a lady's maid had an interview with one, to whom, after having examined her appearance, she said:

"Of course you will be able to dress my hair for me?"

"Oh, yes," replied the girl. "Is never takes me more than half an hour to dress a lady's hair."

"Half an hour, my child!" exclaimed the duchess in accents of terror. "And what on earth then should I be able to do with myself all the remainder of the morning?"—London Tit-Bits.

A Pointer.

Unless a gentleman is a lady's escort he should never offer to pay her car fare, as it places her under an obligation she may not desire, and for which 5 cents is a poor remuneration. The intention is kind, but the act intrusive.—Table Talk.

LIZZIE HALLIDAY'S TRIAL.

A Jury Quickly Secured—To Be Tried on the Sarah McQuillan Indictment—The Twelve Good Men and True Who Will Determine Her Fate.

Special to the DAILY ARGUS.

MONTICELLO, June 19—District Attorney Hill has selected the indictment charging Lizzie Halliday with the murder of Sarah McQuillan as the one which of the three indictments on which she will be tried. He expects, however, to bring out the facts in regard to the murder of Margaret McQuillan, the mother and of old Paul Halliday, and the finding of the bodies.

Ten of the panel of jurors drawn did not answer to their names, and the Judge fined them $25 each.

While the work of selecting a jury was in progress, Mrs. Halliday manifested intense anxiety She was very pale, and her excitement finally culminated in a nervous fit, during which her head shook as with ague

The work of securing a jury was ended at 7 o'clock, and the court adjourned until 9 o'clock, Tuesday morning, when the trial will begin in earnest. A large number of experts in insanity have been summoned by both the prosecution and the defense.

Mrs. Halliday's anxiety and apprehension were painfully apparent during to day's proceedings, and it was freely predicted that she would collapse before the week was over, or sustain the theory of the defense by developing into a raving maniac.

The work of securing a jury was not as tedious as had been anticipated. The questions of the District Attorney related only to capital punishment, prejudice against inflicting the death penalty on a woman, as to weighing conflicting expert testimony and belief in circumstantial evidence.

The questions by Mr. Carpenter for the defense related only to willingness to accept insanity as a defense.

The jury is made up as follows: David P. Depuy, farmer, Thunder Hill; David B. Bailey, farmer, Pleasant Lake; Peter Thiese, farmer, Callicoon; William Graby, farmer, Fremont; Ira Wolcott, section foreman, Rockland; Benjamin Buchanan, farmer, Lumberland; Richard Retford, farmer, Fallsburgh; Gaylord Fuller, farmer, Liberty; Abraham Sniffin, farmer, Fallsburgh; Webster Sherwood, retired farmer, Rockland; George W. Decker, farmer, Thompsonville; Elroy Moulthrop, farmer, Delaware.

The jury was placed in charge of Constables George Schmidt, of Callicoon, and Henry Wagner, of Jeffersonville. They will be quartered at the Rockwell House, where cots have been assigned for them in the main hall.

Special to the DAILY ARGUS.

MRS. HALLIDAY'S BAD MORNING.

MONTICELLO, June 19—Elizabeth Halliday was visibly rattled this morning, when the witnesses in the case told of her crimes. She kept her down, but it shook and trembled. She held a tight grip on her nose all of the time and it was raw by noon from the pinching.

Dr. Allison, of the Matteawan Hospital, examined her, to-day, in her cell and pronounced her insane. He has not yet testified. Miss Adeline D. Wright, a neighbor of the McQuillans, and a half dozen others were called, this morning. Thomas McQuillan cried when he told of the going away of his wife and daughter.

Ten men of the fourteen absent jurymen, put in an appearance, today, and on explaining that a new time table had caused them to miss their train, were excused and the fines remitted.

IDENTIFIED BY MANY WITNESSES.

District Attorney Hill, in his opening, stated what he would prove, and called attention to the plea of insanity as the defense.

Mrs. Wright, of Newburgh, called for the prosecution, identified the clothes, etc., of Miss McQuillan

J. Osborn, of Newburgh, saw Mrs. Halliday with Mrs. McQuillan, and identified her

Mrs. Arnott and her brother, of Cedenham, testified to visits of Mrs. Halliday at their place on her way to Newburgh.

Thomas McQuillan identified Mrs Halliday, and testified to her visits to his house.

J. W. Henry, of Burlingham, testified to digging out bodies of mother and daughter from under the manure heap in the barn.

Seriously Injured.

Morris A Lee, an O. and W. engineer, residing at No. 131 Wickham avenue, while walking across some beams in an unfinished portion of the garret of his residence, slipped and fell, straddling one of the cross beams, sustaining serious injuries. He may be confined to his home for some time.

A Purely Vegetable Compound.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y., has the indorsement of the medical profession simply upon its merit as a curative agent. In cases of Kidney trouble, sluggish liver, constipation and dyspepsia, it is the only positive and sure remedy. It has recorded the most wonderful cures of gravel and stone in the bladder.

For more than thirty years Mr. Gillespie was an elder in Hopewell Presbyterian Church and a teacher in the Sunday School.

Rev. David Beattie

Our readers will regret to learn that Rev. David Beattie, pastor of the Scotchtown Presbyterian Church, died at his home in that village, at 2:30 o'clock, this morning. A more extended obituary notice will appear to-morrow.

Col. Thomas A. Harding.

A copy of the San Francisco Chronicle of June 9th, received by Dr. H. Everett, contains the announcement of the death on June 8th, of Col. Thomas A. Harding, a native and for many years a resident of this county, who will be remembered by many of our citizens. He was eighty-five years and nine months old.

IN A RECEIVER'S HANDS.

J. V. Z Anthony Appointed Receiver of the Electric Light and Power Co

On Saturday, Judge Gaynor, of the Supreme Court, appointed as receiver of the Middletown Electric Light and Power Co., the present secretary and treasurer, and general manager of the company, Mr. J. V Z Anthony. The appointment was made on the application of the Atlantic Trust Co., as trustee of the bondholders and with the consent of the stockholders.

The appointment of Mr. Anthony as receiver showed the confidence reposed in him and is a graceful recognition of his business abilities.

The plant will be run just as it has been in the past and the change from general manager to receiver will in no wise affect existing contracts.

It is understood that the cause of the difficulty is the result of a legal squabble between the General Electric Co. and the Fort Wayne Electric Co., and the receivership was merely a measure of protection to the bondholders.

TWO BRUTAL TRAMPS.

They Commit a Robbery and Strike a Woman.

This forenoon two burly tramps entered the rear door of the little store kept by Mrs. Frank Romer at Summit Lake, and began helping themselves to tobacco, cakes, etc

Mrs. Romer, who was in the front part of the store with a babe in her arms, started toward the men, when one of them struck her a blow back of the head and both men then ran away with their plunder.

The blow given Mrs. Romer was no gentle tap for it raised a lump of considerable size and was sufficient to stun her until the men were out of reach of her she was able to alarm the neighbors

The police were notified and we hope will succeed in arresting the brutes.

The Wife Relented.

There was only one case in Recorder's Court, this morning, that of a man arrested on a complaint of his wife for a disorderly conduct in an intoxicated condition. He pleaded hard, and the wife relented, resulting in his discharge on the promise of future good behavior.

There Was No "Scrap."

Some of the members of the sporting fraternity, in this city, were disappointed last night. It had gone out quietly that a prize fight had been arranged between a Middletown man and a Paterson bruiser, the fight to take place at a certain resort out of town, but there was some hitch in the details and the affair was postponed.

From a Methodist Minister.

CHARLSON, N. Y., Nov. 1892 —"I have used Gilmore's Aromatic Wine in my family, and for a debilitated system there is nothing to equal it in restoring vigor and strength, and for female weakness it stands without a rival. I most heartily recommend it to all who may be suffering from chronic malaria or biliousness." —Rev. E. J. Whitney. All druggists sell Gilmore's Aromatic Wine at $1.00 per bottle.

"A BAD CASE OF RATTLES."

The Asylums Lose Yesterday's Game to the Cuban Giants in the First Inning—Some Very Good and Some Very Bad Playing—The Game in Detail.

But for an extremely disastrous attack of nervous prostration, commonly termed "a bad case of rattles," the Asylums would have won yesterday's contest with their old antagonists, the Cuban Giants.

The attack came on in the first inning and lasted until five dark shadows flitted past the home plate. Patterson, the first man up, was struck in the side by a pitched ball. He lay down and groaned for several moments, then took first. When W. Jackson sidgled to right, "Pat," as he is called by his fellow players, ran to third like a deer, without the slightest indication that he had ever been touched.

When W. Jackson started to steal second, the agony commenced. McGreevey threw the ball to center field and Paterson came home on the wild throw. Whyte struck out, and hope once more took a position on the Asylum's perch, only to take an ignominious drop, when Tommy Murray muffed Clarence Williams's pop fly. Both runners scored on Grant's two-bagger. A. Jackson was an easy mark, Cheseboro to Dooley, Grant going to third on the out. Cheseboro gave O. Jackson a base on balls, and the latter stole second on the first ball pitched. Terrill hit a grounder to Murray, and for the second time in the inning, that player made an inexcusable error, on which Grant scored, Jackson going to third. The latter scored a moment later on a wild pitch Lawlor put a stop to further damage by pulling down Selden's long fly to deep center after a hard run.

It was an encouraging opening, five runs, but the Asylums braced up in fielding and after that most disastrous inning, only one "Joint" passed the plate. This was in the sixth inning, when, after two were out, Patterson, who had forced Selden, stole second and third, scoring when Cheseboro, in trying to field a grounder from W. Jackson's bat, knocked it to one side, away from Murray, who would have gobbled it up easily and retired the side.

The Asylums scored four runs in the third inning, and the cranks were wild in the hope that a victory might be won after all. McGreevy was the first man up and he made a neat single and scoring on Grant's fumble of Madison's hard hit grounder, Murray going to second Murray and Madison then made a double steal of second and third bases. The bases were filled by Lawlor's base on balls, and with no one out, Genegal came up and the crowd yelled for a "homer." "Chris" made a neat single, sending in two runs. Lawlor should have attempted to score, while half the Cubans were trying to run "Chris" down between first and second, but he didn't and "Chris" finally was declared out for running out of the base line. Lawlor scored the fourth run on a wild pitch a moment later. Tierney and Dooley were easy outs

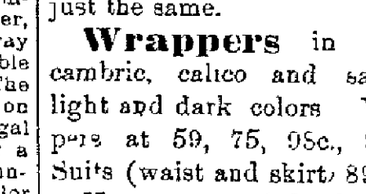

The Asylums scored the only earned run of the game in the eight inning General angled and stole second, scoring on Dooley's single.

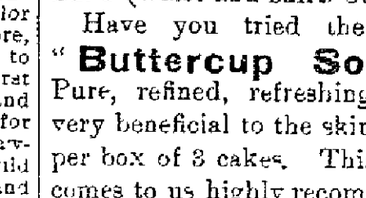

Cheseboro pitched a splendid game and with proper support would have won the contest. The continual chattering of the Cubans was worse than "a box of monkeys," but the young player did not get rattled once during the game.

There were several exhibitions of careless base running on the part of the Asylums, which resulted, had proper judgment been used.

The game, however, pleased the crowd, which with a single exception was glad to see the visitors win.

The Cubans have played forty-three games, this season, losing but five of them. The summary:

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long they seemed almost petrified. When I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. I recommend this remedy to others." Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

TRAPS AND SNARES.

CONTRIVANCES THAT SHOW WHAT A GENIUS THE YANKEE IS

You Would Call Most of the Inventions Absurdities, and Yet They Are Useful—Devices For Poisoning Pests—Rattraps of Many Kinds.

American invention has given birth to no end of freaks, which have been embalmed at the patent office in order that they may not perish. Some of the queerest of them are devices for entrapping beasts, bugs, fishes and even human beings.

What, for example, could be funnier than the notion of using imitation flowers with poisoned honey to attract noxious insects? The artificial blossoms, each containing a small quantity of sugary liquid properly prepared, are to be fastened to twigs. Moths of destructive species sip the deadly nectar and die. A more elaborate device of a similar description is intended for the protection of apple trees. It is a tin can covered as to its upper half with luminous paint. On the outside of the lower half apple blossoms are represented with the same sort of paint. Inside of the receptacle is a small quantity of cider. The can is to be hung on a branch of an apple tree at night. Insects, attracted by the pictured flowers, light upon the can. The smell of the cider induces them to enter through holes provided for that purpose. They then drop down into the cider and are drowned.

Yet it is not always easy to distinguish between a crank idea and a useful discovery. The poisoned counterfeits of flowers above described are said to work very well. Many years ago a man got a patent for a method of killing bugs on trees by inclosing the whole tree in a sort of balloon of canvas, into which an asphyxiating gas was to be poured for the purpose of suffocating the insects. Everybody thought he was a lunatic. But now that his patent has run out the merits of the plan have suddenly obtained appreciation, and its adoption is alleged to have saved the orange growing industry in California. Several kinds of luminous baits for fish have been patented. One of these is a minnow of hollow glass coated on the inside partly with a solution of gold or silver, and partly with luminous paint. The result is a very brilliant object in the water, calculated to attract any predacious creature with fins. Another interesting contrivance is for making frog bait more seductive. The jerking of the line equipped with this device causes the frog's legs to move as if he were swimming.

Contrivances for catching insects are more numerous than any others. One of them is a furnace for slaughtering potato bugs. To begin with, a deep and wide furrow is to be plowed all around an infested field. Through this trench a smooth log is dragged to make the surface hard and smooth. The bugs in migrating to other mounds are unable to scale the trench, and the furnace, which is a cylinder of iron filled with fuel, is drawn along the furrow and destroys them. Other odd devices are cartridges intended to be inserted in the mouths of ant holes and to be fired, thus communicating stifling vapors to the subterranean chambers, also many kinds of lamps for attracting and burning up the moths of various worms in cotton fields. There is a toy pistol for insects, which sucks them in when the trigger is pulled.

An ingenious westerner has invented a trap for catching the hornfly which is such an enemy to cattle in some parts of the country. It consists mostly of a great frame to which brush is attached in such a manner that when the beasts walk through, eager as they always are to scratch themselves, the flies will be scraped from their bodies by the branches. Finally the frame is closed up by means of doors, and the captured insects are destroyed. Nearly everybody has heard of the gold tapeworm trap, which the patient swallows. Bedbug traps are of several varieties, all of them being intended to afford attractive hiding places for these blood suckers and to be burned or scalded out afterward.

Much ingenuity has been expended in rattraps. Some of them are so elaborate that no full witted rodent would go near them. One requires Mr. Rat to come in through a door, which drops behind and makes him a prisoner. Seeing a bright light above, he ascends a flight of little steps and trots across a small plank that is so nicely adjusted as to balance that his weight causes it to tip and throw him into a tank of water. Another contrivance consists of a double chamber. One chamber has a glass end, through which Mr. Rat sees two or three imitation rats having a nice time with a bit of cheese. Wishing to join them, he runs around the box, gets into the other chamber and is caught.

There are a number of devices which employ mirrors for the purpose of luring the rat to his fate. He mounts on top of a barrel and sees a toothsome piece of cheese. As he approaches it he beholds another rodent—in reality his own reflection in a piece of looking glass—coming for the cheese from the opposite direction. He makes a dash to get there first, and a pivoted board drops him into the cask, which is half full of water. Rats will swim for a long time, so one humanitarian has patented a [illegible] with little shelves around [illegible] and just above the surface. ONE ON MOSES

The Scenic Artist of a Chicago Theater Mixed In Spelling and History.

Scenic Artist Moses of the Schiller theater painted the scenery for "The Black Hussar," now on at that house. Mr. Moses has painted the scenery for many plays and operas in his time, but it has never happened that he has been called upon to mount this particular opera before. He was given the scene plot some time ago, and he went to work. A few days before the production Manager Prior ordered a scenic rehearsal, and when the scenes were set he went back on the stage to inspect them. It will be remembered by those who have heard "The Black Hussar" that in the second act, scene of the village square, the diplomatic magistrate is supposed to have arrayed upon the outer wall of his house a reversible picture showing the figures of Czar Alexander and Napoleon. This picture he works by a crank, so that when the French troops appear on the scene he can loyally display Napoleon, and when the Russians arrive he can readily shift to the czar. Well, after admiring the picture of Napoleon which Mr. Moses had made, Mr. Prior turned the crank attachment and swung the affair around. In place of a portrait of Alexander in full regimentals he was astonished to see the figure of a smooth faced, stern looking party, clad in a toga and wearing a vivid green laurel wreath. Turning back to Napoleon, Manager Prior called Moses and asked who it was.

"It's Napoleon," said the artist, "and I flatter myself it's a pretty tidy likeness."

"Yes, it is all right," said Prior, "but who is this supposed to represent?" And he turned the crank.

"Why, that's Cæsar," replied Moses.

"What is Cæsar doing up there?" asked the manager.

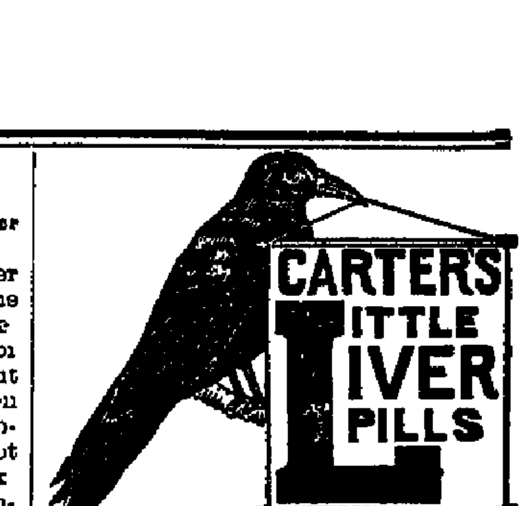

"Here he is on the scene plot," answered the artist. "It reads 'Napoleon and Cæsar,' doesn't it?"

"No, it doesn't," said Prior. "It does say, 'Napoleon,' but that is c-z-a-r, czar, not Cæsar. It means Czar Alexander."

Moses then went over to the public library, got a plate of Alexander from Fred Hild, painted out his laureled Cæsar and filled in with the uniformed Alexander which the audiences now see.—Chicago Times.

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

SAMMY'S NEW OVERCOAT.

After Much Discussion It Is Finally Decided Upon.

Dramatis Personæ—The clerk, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and Sammy.

The Clerk (rubbing his hands)—What shall I have the pleasure——

Mr. Thompson—I want a good overcoat for this boy.

Mrs. Thompson—We want to see some overcoats, not too expensive, but the best quality, brown, or dark blue, or——

Sammy—I want one just like George Bigelow's.

The Clerk—Certainly! What size, madam? Fourteen years, I suppose?

Mrs. Thompson (proudly)—He won't be 11 till March.

The Clerk—Impossible!

Mrs. Thompson—He's the largest boy in his——

Mr. Thompson—We want an overcoat.

The Clerk—Will you have an ulster? How do you like this dark blue chinchilla—our new cut, best quality, storm collar and change pocket in the sleeve? Sixteen dollars.

Sammy (with satisfaction)—It's just like George Bigelow's!

Mr. Thompson—That's a good warm coat and looks well. We'll take it.

Mrs. Thompson (in horror)—Sixteen dollars! What are you thinking of, David? Show us something for about $9.

The Clerk—Here's an elegant coat for $9 and fits perfectly. We guarantee that no other house——

Mr. Thompson—He couldn't breathe in it.

The Clerk—Well, this boy is going to get slenderer as he gets older. That coat will fit him first rate next——

Sammy—'Tain't like George Bigelow's.

Mrs. Thompson—And it's too cheap looking. We might go a little higher.

The Clerk—We can suit you at any price. Here's an enormous bargain for $10.50. See how elegantly it sets in the back!

Mr. Thompson (wearily)—Wouldn't it look better to come a little below his back?

Sammy—'Tain't near so long as——

Clerk—Coats are shorter this year. Besides, this boy won't grow any more very soon, don't you know. He's got his growth for two years to come.

Mr. Thompson—I presume your house will guarantee that?

Mrs. Thompson—Perhaps for a little more money. Here's one marked $11.75.

Mr. Thompson—And then we'll look at your entire line at $11.75.

The Clerk—Well, this coat talks for itself. There you are, young Vanderbilt!

Mrs. Thompson—Isn't it a little large?

The Clerk—This boy is going to grow like a weed. You don't want a garment that he'll outgrow in a month or two. Long coats are the newest thing anyhow.

Mrs. Thompson (just beginning to enjoy herself)—I haven't seen anything I like yet, have you, David? If you have a coat for $12 or so, perhaps——

They try on coats at $12, $12.50, $13, $13.75, $14.25, $14.60 and $14.65. Time consumed, 1 hour and 47 minutes. Some patience is also consumed.

The Clerk (composedly)—This blue chinchilla at $16——

Sammy—That's the one that's just like George Bigelow's.

Mrs. Thompson—It does look nice on him. And only $16, David! and thick and warm and——

Mr. Thompson (with studied calmness)—Yes; it doesn't seem to have changed materially in the two hours since I said we'd take it.—Puck.

He Obeyed Her.

Most American women have had embarrassing experiences in social emergencies. Perhaps none was ever more trying than the adventure of a lady noted in New York society for her courtesy and savoir faire.

One winter day she started on the train for Philadelphia, taking her seat in what she supposed was an ordinary parlor car. There was but one other occupant, a somewhat stout man, who sat with his back to her. Presently he lighted a cigar and began to smoke. The lady coughed and moved uneasily, but her hints had no effect. She said at last tartly:

"You probably are a foreigner, sir, and do not know that there is a smoking car attached to the train. Smoking is not permitted here."

The man without reply threw his cigar out of the window.

A few minutes later the conductor entered and stared at her in dismay.

"How did you come here, madam?" he inquired.

"Why, where am I?"

"In General Grant's private car."

The usual tact of this lady failed her here. She stared at the dumb, immovable figure and retreated without a word.—Youth's Companion.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

SEVERAL CASES DISPOSED OF AT THE JUNE CIRCUIT.

Three Judgments Against the Middletown Electric Light and Power Company—Judgment Against the Erie in Favor of a Middletown Glass Worker—Disagreement in Reppert vs. Erie—Granville vs Palo.

At the afternoon session of court an inquest was taken in the case of Wm. R. Perkins vs. James J. Kane. Action for goods sold and delivered. Judgment was given to plaintiff for $[illegible]. Stephen H. Mould for plaintiff.

S. S. Gowdey took an inquest in three cases, all of the same nature as above. Theodore McConnell received a judgment for $[illegible], George H. Madden for $[illegible] and Galen Coleman for $[illegible].77. All the above judgments were against the Middletown Light and Power Company.

A PASSENGER'S SUIT AGAINST THE ERIE.

A jury was taken in the case of George Miller vs. John King and another as receivers of the Erie R. R. Co. John W. Lyon and Frank Lybolt appeared for plaintiff and Wm. A. Tunstall and Louis R. Carr for defendants. Mr. Lyon opened the case. He said this was a case where the plaintiff had purchased a ticket to travel on train of defendant from Middletown to Sparrowbush. When at Port Jervis the conductors of the train were changed. When just outside of Port Jervis the new conductor stated that the train would not stop at Sparrowbush. He pulled the bell rope and ejected the plaintiff and another from the train. They had to walk to Sparrowbush, a distance of three miles. The incident occurred in March last.

George Miller was the first witness called. He testified in part as follows: In March last I was employed in the glass factory, Middletown. March 11th, 1894, accompanied by Joe Rose, I purchased a ticket at the ticket office of the Erie at Middletown for 75 cents. The ticket was for Sparrowbush. Rose asked the ticket agent at Middletown if the milk train stopped at Sparrowbush. He replied yes. On the strength of that I purchased a ticket. At Port Jervis there was a change of conductors. The new conductor stopped the train and telling us that the train did not stop at Sparrowbush ejected us. We walked to Sparrowbush.

Cross-examined he stated that the train was at a full stop when they alighted. The first they knew that the train did not stop at Sparrowbush was when the conductor on the Delaware Division milk told us that it did not.

Joseph Rose was the next witness called. He was the friend who accompanied plaintiff from Middletown to Sparrowbush. His testimony was mainly corroborative of that of the former witness. In fact it agreed in every detail. He identified Harry Tuthill as the ticket agent who sold the tickets.

Mr. Carr moved for non-suit on ground that the complaint does not state cause of action, which is borne out by the evidence. Motion denied.

TESTIMONY FOR THE DEFENSE.

Conductor Harvey Lamb called for defense—Live at Port Jervis. Have been a passenger conductor about twenty years. Sparrowbush was not a stopping place for the train in question. At that time I was the conductor of that train. His testimony was the same as the plaintiff's except that he said he told them that the first stop was at Pond Eddy. He said he stopped the train and told them they could get off if they chose.

A. H. Underwood sworn—I live near Deposit. I heard the conversation between Mr. Lamb and these men. It was substantially as stated by Mr. Lamb. He stated that he had been a conductor since 1857.

Harry Tuthill, of Middletown, was called and stated that he did not recognize these men. He did not remember these men, nor selling them tickets. He stated positively that he did not tell the men that the train stopped at Sparrowbush.

The defendant rested.

Mr. Miller re-called.—He denied that Mr. Lamb told him he could get off the train if he chose. Mr. Rose swore to the same thing.

Mr. Carr renewed his motion for a dismissal. The motion was denied. Mr. Carr summed up for the defendant and Mr. Lyon for the plaintiff. The Judge in his charge stated that the conductor did the right thing in putting them off at Port Jervis. He said they were entitled only for inconvenience, etc., in going to Sparrowbush. The jury retired at [illegible] p. m. After a short absence they returned with a verdict of $[illegible], for plaintiff. Mr. Carr moved to set the verdict aside. The court said it [illegible] dispose of the matter later.

[illegible] VS. THE ERIE.

[illegible] case called was that of [illegible] G. Reppert vs. the Erie Railroad Co. [illegible] O'Neill & [illegible] appeared for plaintiff, and L. R. Carr [illegible]. This is an action [illegible] damages for in[illegible]. The plaintiff was a [illegible] which [illegible] the defendant. A [illegible] accident [illegible] plaintiff was [illegible] witness called: [illegible] 17th, [illegible] running from [illegible] When we got [illegible] into it. It was open. I jumped from the train and was injured. Our engine and cars were wrecked. After I jumped off I ran back to the coach or caboose. I discovered I was cut over the eye and had my leg smashed. I was at the Middletown Hospital thirteen weeks. An operation was performed. The great toe was removed. Reppert is thirty-three years of age.

Corroborative evidence of the above was given by A. Whitley, Charles Snyder and E. W. Hanson, all of whom were on the train.

Mr. Carr moved for a dismissal of the complaint. Motion denied.

Defense opened:

Conductor John Terrell was the first witness called. He passed over the road shortly before the wrecked train, and the switch was all right then.

B. P. Hill, operator at the signal tower at Goshen, was next called. He testified that Terrell's train passed over the track before the wrecked train did. The engineer of Terrell's train testified as did Mr. Terrell and Mr. Hill. Mr. O'Neill endeavored to find out who was the track-walker on this section of the road, but the witness could not help him.

Frank Wood and Governor Jones were called to prove the same state of facts. The plaintiff admitted that the switch was all right when Terrell's train passed over it.

The defense then closed their case.

Mr. Carr moved a dismissal of the complaint on the ground that there was no evidence that the defendant had done anything to cause this accident. There was a slight argument over the fact whether the switch exhibited any indications of having been broken open. Mr. Shaffer, a conductor, was called, and said that he had examined the switch just after the accident, and it was then turned and locked. Mr. Carr summed up on the part of the road, and Mr. William F. O'Neill presented the case to the jury on behalf of the plaintiff. The Court gave the usual charge and the jury retired.

A jury was taken in case number ninety-three. This is a Middletown case entitled Jacob B. Crosby vs. Benjamin C. Woodward. J. F. Bradner appears for plaintiff and Daniel Finn for defendant. Defendant gave promissory notes to plaintiff to the amount of several hundred dollars for services rendered, while in the employ of the defendant. The defense was the statute of limitations. The plaintiff offered several letters in evidence which they claimed keep the claim alive. Mr. Finn moved for dismissal of complaint. Motion denied and Court directed a verdict for $1,[illegible].

A motion was made for a change of venue in the case of [illegible] against the Aetna Live Stock Insurance Company. Defendant wishes to change it to Warren county. The action is one brought to recover for insurance on live stock. The amount involved is $[illegible]. John W. Lyon, of Port Jervis, opposed the motion. Judge Cullen reserved his decision.

The Court then ordered the jury in the railroad case to bring in a sealed verdict.

Court then adjourned until 9 a. m., Tuesday.

MONDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

GOSHEN, June 18.—When Court opened at 9 o'clock, to-day, the jury in the case of James G. Reppert against the Erie R. R. Co. came into court. They had been out all night and not being able to agree were discharged.

The next on the calendar was the case of Mary Granville vs. Frank Palo. This is an action for damages brought by plaintiff against defendant for assault. Both parties are residents of Middletown.

Mary Granville sworn: Am a married woman with nine children. Palo came to my house on the night of Nov. 8th last. He was accompanied by another person. I sat in a chair in the room. He pushed the door open and entered. He sat down. He pinched me several times. I changed my seat to the sofa. He followed me and made improper proposals, and grabbing me held me tightly. I struggled and finally got away from Palo. At this time there was in the room an Italian, who was with Palo. My son was also there.

Upon cross-examination Mrs. Granville testified that five of her children were in the room when the assault was committed. The ages of these five children ranged from six to seventeen years. Palo was drunk.

Theodore Granville was next called. He is the sixteen-year-old son of plaintiff. I was present when the men came to our house. Mr. Peterson is the man who came to the house with Palo. He testified to about the same state of affairs as did his mother. He added that after the assault was committed he ran and secured a gun. The Italians retired.

Mr. Godsey, who appeared for plaintiff, rested.

Mr. Decker opened the case for defendant. He stated that his defense was that the story told by plaintiff was absolutely false.

Frank Palo called. He testified that some time previous to the time of the alleged assault Granville had given him an order on his employer for goods purchased from him (Palo). The order had been "stopped" and payment refused. He called on the night in question upon Mrs. Granville, and asked her to withdraw her opposition so as to save him the trouble of suing Granville's employer for the money.

Then Palo denied almost all the rest of the story told by Mrs. Granville and the son. He denied that he assaulted Mrs. Granville then or at any time. Was in the house but seven or eight minutes. Was not drunk that night.

Mrs. Frank Palo was the next witness. She is the wife of defendant. She brought out nothing new.

Peter Oliver was next sworn. His testimony was to the effect that Palo had but two glasses of wine that afternoon. He was with Palo that evening. He said that while Palo was at Granville's he did not commit any assault. That Palo asked the young man who testified as above if he ever got any groceries of Palo. The boy said, "I'll show you groceries." He then got a gun and we got out.

Chas. Keener and another witness were called to corroborate Palo's statement as to his condition in regard to sobriety on the day in question. Mr. Decker summed up on the part of the defendant and Mr. Godsey for plaintiff. The Jury gave plaintiff a verdict for twenty-five dollars.

A HORSE CASE.

The next case called was that Elizabeth Birch and another vs. Rosalie M. Loyd. John G. VanEtten appears for the plaintiff and John C. R. Taylor, for defendant.

This is an action brought by Geo. W. Birch and wife, to recover possession of a horse and damages for the retention of the animal for several months past. They claim that they owned the horse by virtue of a chattel mortgage, given by one Brundage. The chattel mortgage was duly filed in the proper office. The mortgage was given to secure the payment of promissory notes endorsed by Birch.

This case is one which involves a lot of dry testimony about notes and book accounts and is of little or no particular interest to the public. This case was on when court took a recess for dinner.
